

Westfield Annapolis Kidzone Receives New Paintings

by Rebecca Cleary | September 19, 2011

<http://greaterannapolis.patch.com/articles/westfield-annapolis-kidzone-receives-new-paintings>

National Art Honor Society students from Southern High School worked with children to paint six large pictures for the mall's new play area.

NAHS students: (right to left) Rebecca Jones, Cat Allen, their teacher Michael Bell, Tyler Mills and Hannah Mosby.

Art Chairman Michael Bell and his students from Southern High School's National Art Honor Society helped kick off the mall's latest play area. His High School students were given carte blanche to paint and create art at the Kidzone outside Lord & Taylor in Westfield Annapolis Mall. The students spent Saturday afternoon creating six large, 24-inch by 36-inch, collaboration paintings with children ages 2 to 11. The paintings will hang in the mall's Kidszone.